PD Vantive

On behalf of the PD team at Vantive, I'm pleased to share that all our PD education material is now available for you in the Vantive Learning Hub! Vantive Learning Hub is an on-demand, online learning platform. Now you can access our training resources when and where it suits you and your team.

An easier way to access our education resources

Maybe you've wanted to join a Vantive training session, but your schedule didn't match our event timing. Or perhaps a colleague has told you about a great webinar that preceded your time working in PD. We know that sometimes you just want to refresh your knowledge and review past training material.

All of these training resources will now be available on a new online platform, Vantive Learning Hub. We know that in the past, you might have found our training material difficult to find, or not known when we shared new content. Vantive Learning Hub will make it easy to access and view all training, and you'll be notified when new resources have been uploaded.

We're making it clear, easy to navigate and all located in a single location, so it's easier for you to find the training material that is right for your needs.

Vantive Learning Services and Vantive Learning Hub

In the last edition of VitalVoice, we introduced Vantive Learning Services. Vantive Learning Services is essentially an umbrella brand for all of our training and education. If you've joined us for any of our recent education (like PD Academy, a Virtual Education webinar or our Optimising PD Utilisation Summit), you'll have seen the Vantive Learning Services brand. All of our education events, presentations and videos will be branded Vantive Learning Services.

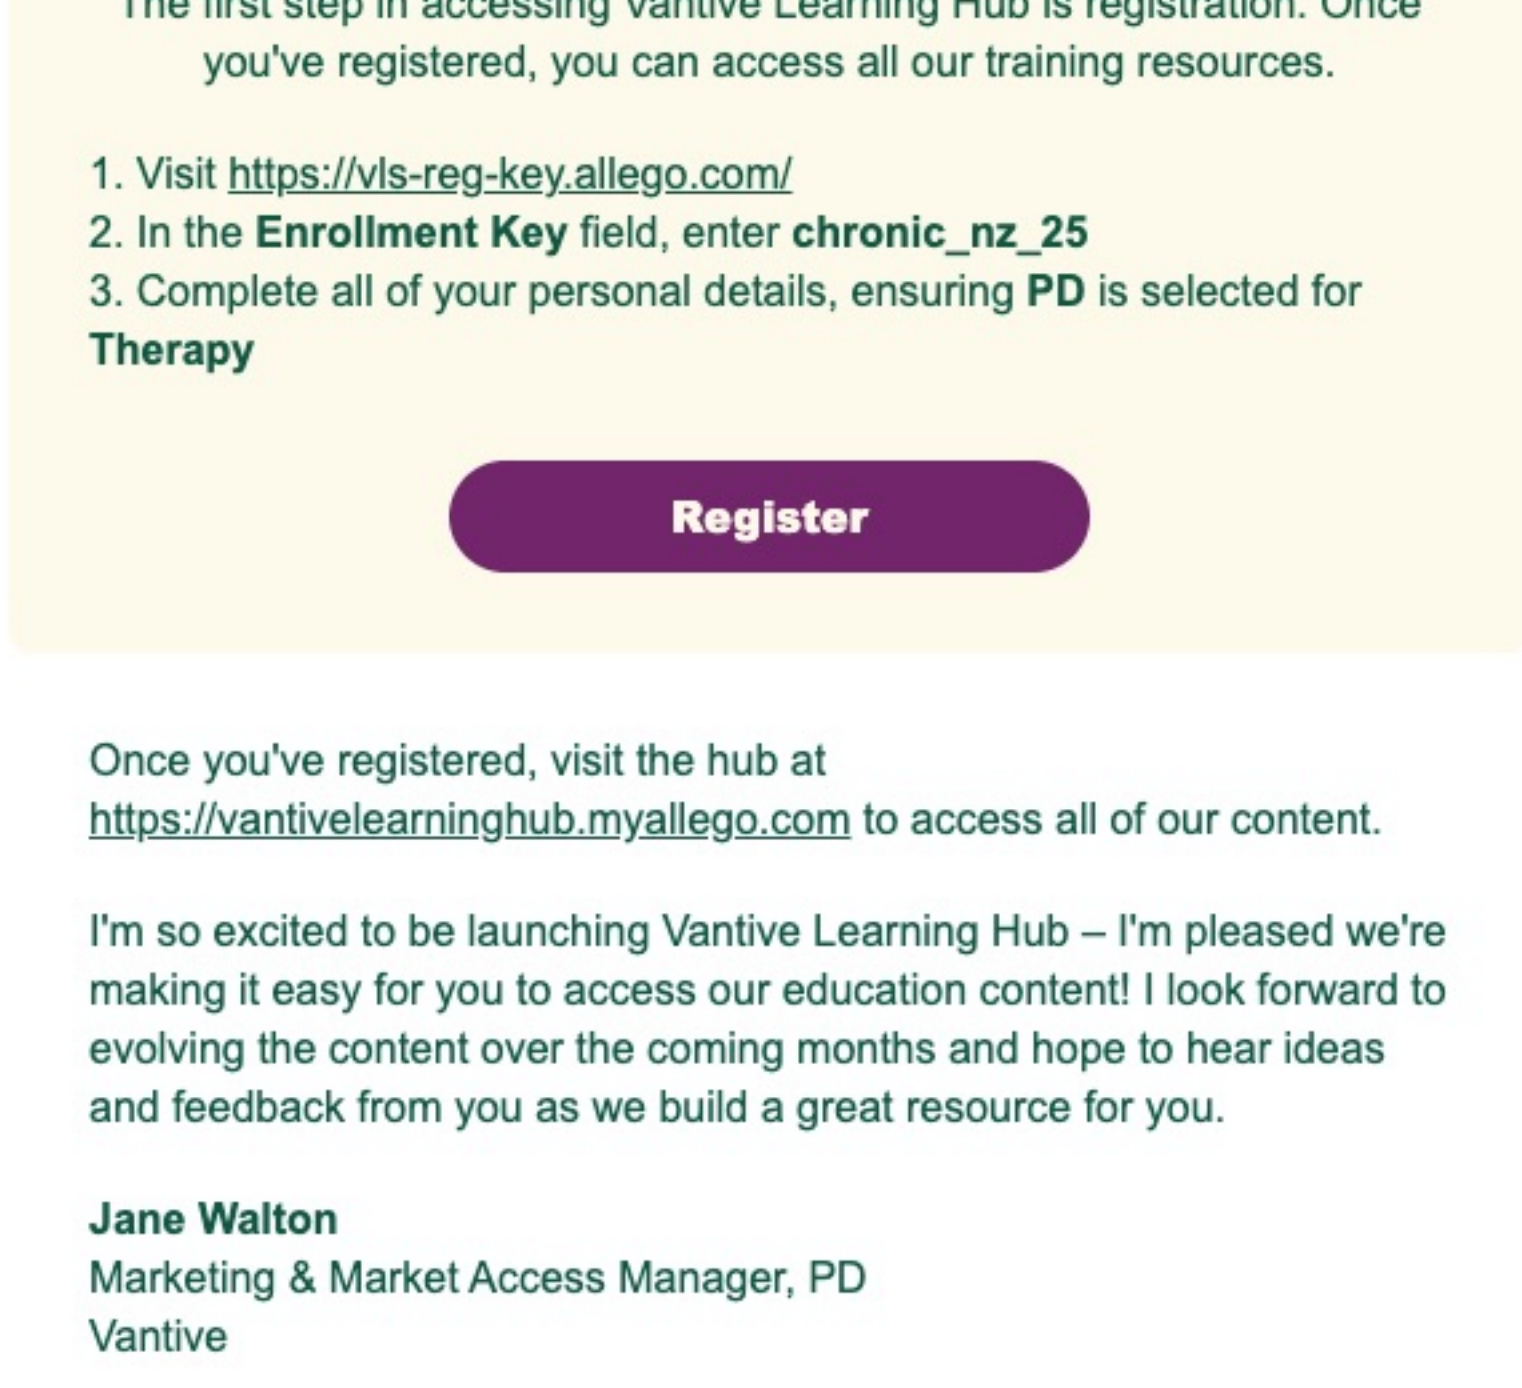

Vantive Learning Hub is a key part of Vantive Learning Services. It is the online platform component of Vantive Learning Services.

On Vantive Learning Hub, you'll be able to access:

- Product training
- Therapy training
- Recorded Virtual Education webinars

This is just the beginning...

Our Vantive Learning Hub journey is just beginning. The content we're launching with today will be continuously evolving and expanding. I'd love to hear from you if you have ideas about the education material you'd like us to create. Please feel free to email me at jane.walton@vantive.com with any suggestions.

We're making it clear, easy to navigate and all located in a single location, so it's easier for you to find the training material that is right for your needs.

Get to know the people who make kidney care personal

One of my key projects is delivering PD Academy to advanced trainees. PD Academy has been in place for 15 years and I'm looking forward to expanding the scope of medical education that Vantive Learning Services offer over the next 12 months to build on the success of PD Academy and to continue to develop PD advocates.
